Finishing

The product undergoes the finishing process to become more acceptable to the consumer. Finishing is performed to enhance the appearance, sizing, affecting touch and the performance of the product. It converts the newly produced harsh and dirty product into a fresh and desirable one. Our qualified technicians always try to achieve modern finishing methods through intense research to make sure we are providing high-quality outcomes to the consumers.

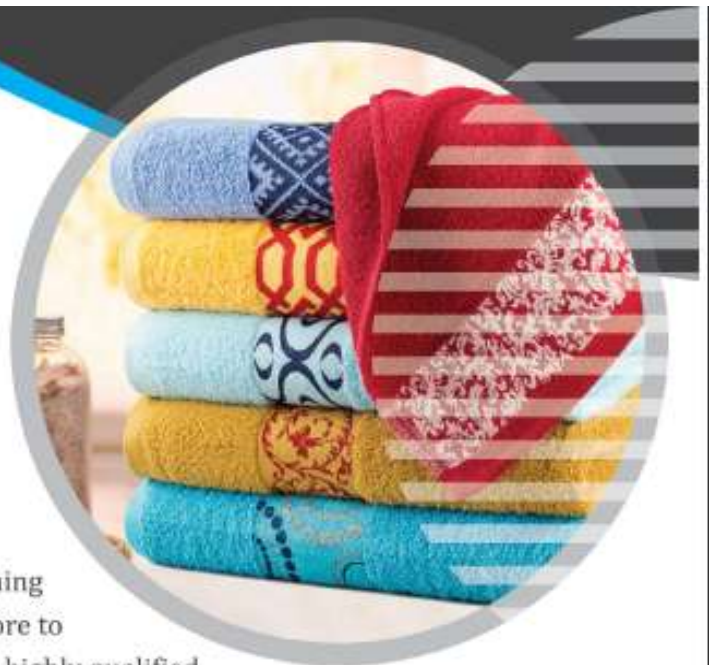

Laboratory

With the latest state-of-the-art machinery, equipment, and dedicated manpower, at Castle Industries we make sure to meet the standards of our consumers. The unit has strong, skilled and experienced workers. For endless advancement in the quality of the end result, research and development are also carried out in the laboratory.

Stitching

Castle industry's production extends to a versatile stitching unit to produce a variety of terry products and much more to cater to our customers. The department operates under highly qualified and trained quality control staff dedicated to minute monitoring effective checks and controls to assure compliance with the quality parameters of all products. We have strong equipment including Automatic Stitching machines for secure double stitch lockstitch.

Quality Control

At Castle Industries, quality is of prime importance. We practice quality control right from the initial stage of sourcing raw materials to the stage of the final finished product. From the fibers to yarns, fabric construction, color fastness, surface designs, and the final finished product, we strive for perfection in all aspects. For this purpose, we have established well-defined controls. We make sure that our employees are not involved in tasks for which they do not have adequate training. Whenever a production problem occurs, we take remedial steps to prevent the problem in the future. Our products are tested by qualified inspectors to make sure that the consumers are getting the desired end-product. We have equipped the department with advanced testing equipment to ensure that material and product quality are not compromised at any stage.

Packing

For the protection and the appropriate handling of products, we have a well-trained team that operates the packaging department.
