2. 2017-2022
3. 2013-2022

From Analysis, you may found depreciation of currencies of listed countries.

Now question arises as what extend such devaluation actually helps export oriented industries. On one-hand side unit prices of our product not increasing as compare to production cost due to rise in cost of raw material, Chemicals & auxiliaries, Freight charges, Fuel cost and conversion cost of due to increase in wages.

The exchange rate of currency has a wider implication across broader economy including inflation, balance of payment and FDI. It means export oriented sector must fully focus on enhancement of efficiency, optimization of resources; invest in supply chain management and automation including technical upgradation. Industry also focus on waste minimization and recycling of waste as well as maximum recovery of chemicals, heat and many other resources.
