Govt to defer gas import plans as demand eases, LNG glut extends

• UK-based firm projects 3pc fall in national gas demand during 2025-40 • Urges reforms as circular debt rises due to price distortions, market imbalances – ISLAMABAD: Despite population projections of 325 million over the next 15 years and rising overall energy needs, Pakistan may have to put off gas import options owing to declining demand until 2040 and the surplus of liquefied natural gas (LNG) going beyond 2031.

Why does FBR extend tax filing deadlines?

The Federal Board of Revenue (FBR) has twice extended the deadline for filing income tax returns this year from the original Sep 30 to Oct 30, ostensibly to facilitate taxpayers and improve compliance. There is little surprise in this; it has become an annual ritual.

Agriculture: Giving cotton a bad name

Findings of recent back-to-back surprise visits to some ginning factories in lower Sindh — known for cotton production — by members of the PCGA regarding production of adulterated lint cotton show that challenges to Pakistan's cotton sector are far from over.
